

BECAUSE I LOVE YOU

© Copyright, R. Arnold 2004

I've heard it said that absence, only makes the heart grow fonder

But after all these years together, I have to stop and wonder

Why I find myself missing you, when you're not even gone

I'm spending every day with you, and still I feel alone

I don't want to bother you, and you won't bother me

And so, we go from day to day, until we finally see

That years can easily waste away, like summer into fall

While we don't work to bother at all

chorus: But I love you, more than I'm attached to foolish pride

More than all the silly things I try to hide

It's really now or never, for us to focus on forever

To do what God would have us do

Because I love you

It's easy to loose myself in your eyes, just to share the dreams you dream

I know God has a plan for us, as hard as these days may seem

And if we live by His good grace, and follow where He leads

We'll always be the happiest we can be

This world is so fleeting, we are here but for a time

I don't know the number of your days, and you cannot know mine

So, let us love each other, and see what God has in store

And he will give us heaven on earth, for just a moment more

chorus: But I love you, more than I'm attached to foolish pride

More than all the silly things I try to hide

It's really now or never, for us to focus on forever

To do what God would have us do

Because I love you

break: If we ever meant it, when we made those vows

The time to start to follow them, is now

chorus and end